

Near the end of her life, Abigail and her baby granddaughter are saved from drowning. She can't explain how they came to be in the river, and the orphaned child is taken for adoption. A sepia photograph, two soft toys, her precious violin and this memoir are all that Abigail can leave the infant as testimony to her turbulent existence. The story of Abigail begins in Yorkshire where her strict Victorian father disapproves of her ambition to become a concert violinist. It is this ambition which takes her away from her humdrum life to the glamour of London and New York. Adventures and liaisons follow: a gifted composer, a handsome conductor, even her New York landlord - till everything changes with marriage to a younger man and the birth of her daughter. From New York to Los Angeles, Portland, and finally back to Yorkshire - in all, a triumphant and ultimately tragic odyssey over more than sixty years. An extraordinary life of a proud and courageous woman.
