

This poem was written for Lex Hixon, author of Great Swan: Meetings with Ramakrishna and Divine Mother of the Universe and founder of the National SRV Association, before he passed away in November, 1995. Responding by letter, Lex wrote, This is an American classic, a true assimilation of the Kali Advaita. It is filled with lightness as well as with Light, and it will move the hearts of many aspirants. The most advanced spiritual thinking (or beyond thinking) is here expressed in the subtlest way. A true sign of realization.

God, The Father, or Brahman is primarily The Supreme Silence. We can stringently respect the pledge to keep physical silence, and, with all these, our mind. I am all-pervading, immortal Atman; knowing this, now I abide in immortal peace. May we all develop cosmic love and universal brotherhood. May we see God. Hindus have great devotion for the Brahman and their locus in the caste Thus, all abiding human beings are comprised of the atman self and.
