

Touch not the cat bot a glove! The MacPherson family crest above the door gives Rachael de Young, genealogist and psychic, an unexpected chill. She doesn't know that by crossing the threshold, her life will change forever. Because the MacPhersons are a family cursed by jealousy, betrayal, and fire! Rachael grows closer to the truth even as she grows closer to the ghost of Jordan MacPherson, who died in the tragic fire!and could very well be the person sabotaging her research. But she must trust Jordan's love in order to find the strength to face her own fears, break her one cardinal rule, and stop a madman before he can kill again. Dayle A. Dermatis eloped properly in Gretna Green, Scotland, rode off on the back of a motorcycle, and hasn't looked back since except to smile and sigh happily. Unsurprisingly, she writes romances that are sometimes sweet, sometimes spicy, sometimes spooky, and sometimes funny, but will always make you smile and sigh happily. An unabashed romantic, she lives in an historic house near the ocean, and whenever she can, she travels the world for inspiration and loses herself in music. Under a variety of names and sometimes with coauthors, she has published several novels and more than a hundred short stories in various genres, most notably erotic romance, erotica, and speculative fiction. She'd love to have you over for a virtual cup of tea or glass of wine at www.DayleDermatis.com.
